

Cerbios obtains Air Cargo Security Known Consignor Certification

Cerbios-Pharma SA (from now on "Cerbios") is proud to confirm that the UFAC (Swiss Authority of Aviation) has granted the Air Cargo Security Known Consignor Certification (from now on "Certification") to Cerbios.

This Certification is part of a voluntary program to improve supply chain security as well as to speed up customs operations and fits perfectly with Cerbios' commitment in delivering high quality and reliable services to all its esteemed partners.

The Air Cargo Security Known Consignor Program is based on EU guidelines and is recognized worldwide. The program covers all security aspects related to the manufacturing, packaging, storage and shipments of pharmaceuticals related materials.

During the DCAT week 2010 last march in New York, a session was dedicated to the "Qualified Trusted Importer Program". Mr. Samuel H. Banks, responsible for STTAS government and commercial programs globally, confirmed that in the future there will be more stringent regulations for the import of pharmaceutical products (being finished products or APIs) in the USA. This means that everybody will have to move in the direction of known consignor in order to avoid having products sitting in warehouses at custom for weeks with the risk of product degradation and consequent economical damages.

"We believe that this Certification once more demonstrates Cerbios' commitment in applying best practices to support our partners and to strengthen our commercial platform. Cerbios is among one of the first Swiss companies involved in CMC services in the pharmaceutical industry to be granted such certification showing the ability to anticipate the needs of the global marketplace" said Gabriel Haering, CEO.

Cerbios is also actively involved in a project granted by Eurostar on creating an innovative RFID against counterfitting providing additional tools not only for the Pharma industry, but also the pharmacist and ultimately the patient (see also News 02/2010).
